Revisiting the Future Neighbourhood Vision

Revisiting the Future Neighbourhood Vision

The Lancaster West Future Neighbourhood Vision is a vision for community services and assets on and around Lancaster West Estate.

Through co-design, the Future Neighbourhood Vision would:

- Identify community priorities for the neighbourhood
- Develop a future eco-neighbourhood
- Better utilise facilities and spaces

Revisiting the Future Neighbourhood Vision

In partnership with residents, Lancaster West Residents' Association and key stakeholders, we identified 23 potential projects that could be delivered on and around Lancaster West Estate.

Each of the projects were assessed in an Opportunities Matrix and scored against a set of criteria to support the community in prioritising projects going forward.

THE PLATFORM GARDEN'S JOURNEY TO LATIMER ROAD VIA LADBROKE GROVE MAY 2023

A team came together at the Chelsea Flower Show 2023, to deconstruct 'The Platform Garden'.

The Platform Garden had been created by garden designers, Amelia Bouquet and Emilie Bausager, collaborating with Energy Garden to ensure that the final garden would be repurposed for a London community.

That community is North Kensington, where Brownbaby have been leading the development of healthy green spaces at London Underground stations, with a Steering Group and volunteer team from the local community.

THE PLATFORM GARDEN'S JOURNEY TO LATIMER ROAD VIA LADBROKE GROVE SEPTEMBER 2023

The Platform Garden, created by garden designers, Amelia Bouquet and Emilie Bausager, for the Chelsea Flower Show 2023, found its new home at Latimer Road Underground station in September.

Volunteers from local group, Brownbaby, and London-wide organisation, Energy Garden, provided the hands and skills to move the planters and plants from their storage space at Ladbroke Grove to the next station along the line at Latimer Road, where they were installed and planted up.

The purpose-built containers were installed and planted up through sunshine and rain, complimenting a brand-new coffee outlet - Deja Brew - inside the station, with temporary daytime seating outside.

The final piece of the Platform Garden - the green tiled back wall - will be installed following planning permission.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea

Markets Plan 2022-2027

This document outlines the Council's commitment to future-proofing markets in the borough, in partnership with others, and will be reviewed annually.

Proposals include 46 actions to be delivered over this period. They are grouped around 3 key areas:

These key areas have been further sub divided into action plan headings:

- A Activating space
- B Enterprise support
- C Sustainability and environmental improvements
- D Attracting new customers
- E Operational improvements
- F Identifying new trading sites and markets
- G Portobello and Golborne Road markets
- H Education and engagement with the community
- I Safety and security

Key Theme/s	No.	Action	2022	2023	2024-2026
	1	Increase the number of isolated trading sites in the borough by identifying potential new isolated trading sites to improve the mix of products available across the borough and consult with residents at each location before licensing new sites	×
	2	Increase the number of markets around the borough in consultation with residents and retailers in the potential locations		×
	3	In consultation with traders, local residents and shops, identify spaces in the markets to encourage increased dwell time by introducing seating to some market pitches and general seating in the area (where space allows). To accommodate this in specific locations only where it is practical, explore the possible relocation of individual traders' vehicles off Portobello Road		×
	4	Consider the implications of pavement seating being re/introduced at markets in relation to their operation		×
	5	Improve the markets accessibility for all users via provision of toilets, flat/even surfaces, and other public realm elements by seeking external funding to make improvements in consultation with traders and local residents		×

London Local Authorities Act 1990 et al

22. Fees and charges

(1)The council may charge to applicants for the grant or variation of street trading licences such fees as are sufficient in the aggregate, taking one year with another, to recover the reasonable costs of dealing with such applications.

(2)The council may recover from licence holders such charges as may be sufficient in the aggregate, taking one year with another, to cover the reasonable costs of—

(a)the collection, removal and disposal of refuse or other services rendered by them to such licence holders; and

(b)the cleansing of streets in which street trading takes place in so far as that cleansing is attributable to such trading; and

(c)any reasonable administrative costs or other costs not otherwise recovered under this Act incurred in connection with the administration of the provisions of this Act; and

(d)the cost of enforcing the provisions of this Act

15 minute city?

Originally unveiled in 2015, the concept aims to encourage the development of polycentric cities where workspaces, shops, restaurants and entertainment are all placed locally, reducing the need to drive.

It attracted more attention after Moreno won the Obel Award in 2021, with the jury saying the concept "addresses the need for us to rethink how our cities can be reimaged, redesigned, and regenerated for the primary benefit of people and the environment".

INTRODUCTION

What is the street markets toolkit and how can it help you?

This toolkit accompanies the Understanding London's Markets report which drew on wide-ranging experience of people working across the sector to build a better picture of London's markets, the challenges they face, the breadth of value they offer, and opportunities to ensure they continue to flourish.

It follows up on the commitment to produce a toolkit with practical advice and guidance on recording and demonstrating the value and impact of markets.

What is the purpose of the markets toolkit

We already know that markets can offer incredible value to Londoners. Having a good understanding of this value is the most effective way to realise the full potential of your market and to access further investment. The purpose of the toolkit is to help you to do just this.

We want to support users of this toolkit in building compelling investment proposals for individual markets. Over time we also want to evidence the positive impact of markets on places and communities across London.

Whether you already have access to robust data or are just beginning to build your case, this toolkit will give you advice and guidance on how to:

CASE STUDY 6: WOODGRANGE MARKET, EAST LONDON

Governance: Unincorporated
Type of market: Street market
Regularity: Weekly on a Saturday
Staffing: Run by a volunteer core group
Website: facebook.com/woodgrangemkte7

History
 Woodgrange Market in Forest Gate in Newham, London, launched as a Christmas Market in 2011 (the year before the Olympics) to bring people into the area, create employment and space where people could meet. The council provided support through a markets consultant and a local councillor, allocating a site, charging a nominal weekly rent and helping with planning to become a designated market.

Organisers visited other markets in the area to get ideas and form relationships with existing stallholders. Woodgrange is now a thriving weekly market with regular stalls – including three allocated for local charities and community groups – a regular clientele and live music. It mainly hosts arts and crafts by local traders and hot food but also fresh fruit and vegetables.

Challenges
 Until recent improvements to the public realm linked to Crossrail, there was no electricity supply to the market. Also storage was an issue, and until the council provided two cyclehoop storage units as part of Crossrail-linked investments, the group had to buy storage and store things in their own living rooms. Initially many residents didn't know the market existed despite its location next to a local supermarket. Another challenge is to find regular volunteers to help setting up and taking down market infrastructure with shifts at 7am to 9am and 3pm to 5pm.

Benefits
 The benefits of Woodgrange Market for the local community and in turn for the council are substantial. The market is well attended by residents and provides a safe space for people who would otherwise be isolated or lonely to come and socialise. It has hosted a number of local charities as well as start-up stalls that eventually set up as permanent businesses nearby, providing employment opportunities for young people. In this way, the initial assistance of the council and ongoing support through rent and licensing has allowed for much wider social value creation by local volunteers.

Fresh produce in Woodgrange Market. (Image: Woodgrange Market.)

Present Day
 The market is thriving, employing an administrator for two hours each week to ensure traders are booked in smoothly. The administrator is someone who used to have a stall and now has a shop next to the market. Alongside the traders who pay for a stall there is a permanent stall that is free for charities, for example a young woman who has a charity that gives out hygiene products.

The market as a whole is the license holder, so individual stallholders need only complete a relatively quick registration process at the local library. This has removed what would otherwise be a significant barrier to local residents looking to set up a market stall.
